

Senior Registrar / Transitional Fellow in Intensive Care Position Available

Department of Critical Care Medicine (DCCM) at Royal Hobart Hospital (RHH), Tasmania, Australia, seeks to recruit for 2022 –

- Senior Registrar / Transitional Fellow

The Department of Critical Care Medicine (DCCM) is Tasmania's only adult tertiary referral intensive care unit. DCCM has 23 beds with more than 1500 admission per year, and high acuity. The broad casemix includes cardiothoracic surgery, neurosurgery, major trauma and burns, complex medical, surgical and haematology and oncology patients.

The Senior Registrar position at the Royal Hobart Hospital DCCM offers a similar level of responsibility to transitional fellow roles including 'first on-call' after hours from home, supported by a Consultant.

It is a genuinely senior role, which requires significant intensive care experience. It is suitable for near-fellowship or post-fellowship Intensive Care advanced trainees or Anaesthetists/Emergency Physicians who are interested in either gaining more critical care experience or seek dual-Fellowship with CICM.

Applicants should have at least two years full time Intensive Care Medicine experience including tertiary intensive care (at least 12 months in Australia), and should be genuinely independent with advanced procedural and airway management and resuscitation of the acutely critically ill patient. Advanced ultrasound and echocardiography skills would be very advantageous. Significant teaching experience is highly desirable. Demonstrated high level communication and teamwork skills are essential.

Tasmania offers multiple opportunities to balance work with life –with world heritage wilderness, outstanding bush walking, mountain biking, boating, food, wine, and arts. A picturesque Hobart offers many of the services, recreational & entertainment options of larger cities without the downside of crowds and traffic!
